ORPHAN BOY IS HEIR

HARRY DAILEY WILL INHERIT ADOPTED PARENTS' PROPERTY.

FIFTY ACRES AND $2,000

Dailey, Who is Now a Barber at Pine Bluff, Ark., Was Adopted by the Dorans in 1881.

Judge Ellison Monday afternoon, after hearing the evidence and arguments of the attorneys in the case of Harry Dailey vs. John Z. Curnutt, administrator of the estate of Bernard Doran, deceased, and the state of Missouri by and through W. E. Wiles, prosecuting attorney, finds for the plaintiff and ordered that a decree of finding and that the same be certified to the probate court.

The suit was filed in the circuit clerk's office on October 15, 1910, and the validity of Dailey's claim to the estate of the Conception farmer, rested on his ability to prove that Doran and his wife adopted him when he was about 5 years old. In February, 1881, Dailey was an inmate of the St. Mary's orphanage asylum at St. Joseph, and at that time his father had been dead about four years and his mother twenty months, leaving five children, among whom was a daughter, who is now the wife of J. D. Kennedy of St. Joseph. Doran and his wife visited the orphanage home in St. Joseph, taking with them a letter of introduction to Mother Superior Clemmons.

Little Harry Dailey appealed to the childless pair and they entered into a contract of adoption for him with his sister, Mrs. Kennedy.

The boy was taken to the home of the Dorans, near Conception Junction and lived with them as their child until manhood. The Doran house was destroyed by fire and this contract of adoption is supposed to have been burned up. February 19, 1904, Mrs. Doran died and Bernard Doran was killed in New Mexico on March 31, 1907, being struck by a train while on a trip to buy land. The Dorans left no blood heirs and left no will.

The Doran estate comprised fifty acres of fine land near Conception Junction and about $2,000 in personal property. The suit was brought by Dailey to establish that contract of adoption. Shinabargar, Blagg & Ellison represented Dailey.

Dailey's home is now in Pine Bluff, Ark., where he is proprietor of the Jefferson hotel barber shop.

THOREAU.

'Twas one of the charmed days
When the genius of God doth flow,
The wind may alter twenty ways,
A tempest cannot blow;
It may blow north, it still is warm;
Or south, it still is clear;
Or east, it smells like a clover farm;
Or west, no thunder fear.
The musing peasant lowly great
Beside the forest water sate;
The rope-like pine roots crosswise grown
Composed the network of his throne;
The wide lake, edged with sand and grass,
Was burnished to a floor of glass;
Painted with shadows green and proud
Of the tree and of the cloud.
He was the heart of all the scene:
On him the sun looked more serene;
To hill and cloud his face was known—
It seemed the likeness of their own;
They knew by secret sympathy
The public child of earth and sky.
"You ask," he said, "what guide
Me through trackless thickets led,
Through thick stemmed woodlands rough and wide.
I found the water's bed:
The watercourses were my guide,
I traveled grateful by their side
Or through their channels dry;
They led me through the thicket damp,
Through brake and fern, the beaver's camp,
Through beds of granite cut my road,
And their resistless friendship showed:
The falling waters led me,
The foodful waters fed me,
And brought me to the lowest land,
Unerring to the ocean sand.
The moss upon the forest bark
Was pole-star when the night was dark;
The purple berries in the wood
Supplied me necessary food;
For Nature ever faithful is
To such as trust her faithfulness.
When the forest shall mislead me,
When the night and morning lie,
When sea and land refuse to feed me,
'Twill be time enough to die:
Then will yet my mother yield
A pillow in her greenest field,
Nor the June flowers scorn to cover
The clay of their departed lover."
—Emerson.

Committee Reports Measure "Without Recommendation."

Washington, Feb. 25.—Opponents of the Canadian reciprocity agreement attempted to put a quietus on legislation on the subject when the McCall bill was reported "without recommendation" from the senate committee on finance. So far as the present session of congress is concerned they took a long step toward accomplishing their purpose.

The return of the bill to the senate by Acting Chairman Burrows of the finance committee was made the occasion for brief speeches, both in opposition and in favor of early action. As only a few days remain to put the bill through a hostile body the speeches against it were accepted generally as its death knell until resurrection could come in an extra session.

SENATE IN ALL NIGHT SESSION

Bailey and Cummins Attempt to Force Vote on Pet Measures.

IOWAN OBDURATE ON ONE POINT

Says He Will Press Bill for Tariff Board to Limit—Texan Would Fix Date for Vote on Lorimer Case. Sherman's Evening Spoiled.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The determination of two senators to force a vote on a pending measure dearest to the heart of each threw the senate into its first night sitting of this session.

The senators were Bailey and Cummins, the measures were the Lorimer resolution and the permanent tariff board bill.

Senator Bailey wanted a time—some time—any time—fixed for a vote on the Lorimer case. Senator Cummins wanted the same thing for the tariff board bill, and apparently he wanted it just as much as the Texan wanted a Lorimer vote.

A motion by Senator Hale to take a recess was made. Senator Bailey was willing if a time for a Lorimer vote could be fixed. Senator Cummins objected and bared his heart that the senators might see how dear to it was the tariff board plan.

But the Texan was obdurate, for he, too, was cherishing a hope, a hope that Lorimer might be declared by this senate to be entitled to his seat.

So the body went into night session, but with a new presiding officer. Vice President Sherman had business elsewhere Calling Senator Kean (N. J.) to the chair, the vice president started for his home in haste.

Sherman Had Reason.

There was a reason. He had invited the members of the senate to meet the diplomatic residents. The event seemed to bid fair to become somewhat devoid of senators, but a very large proportion of official and social Washington was expected and Mr. Sherman had to be its host. No sooner had Senator Hale's motion for a recess been made than Senator Bailey said that if the Lorimer question could be put out of the way other business could be materially expedited.

Senator Cummins thereupon stated his intention to resist the fixing of a time for a vote unless it could be coupled with a similar understanding in the matter of the tariff board bill. The Iowa senator said he considered the tariff board bill of paramount importance and added that as there was no prospect of the Democratic house of the next congress accepting it, he would press the bill as far as parliamentary tactics would enable him to do so.

Bailey proposed to vote on the Lorimer case at 2 p. m. Thursday.

"Unless the tariff board bill is coupled with it," responded Cummins, "I object."

Bailey—Then I suggest a vote at 2 o'clock Friday.

Cummins—I object.

Bailey—Then let us vote at 10 o'clock Saturday.

Cummins—I object.

Bailey—It is evident that no vote by consent is possible and that we can get one only by a test of endurance. I hope there will be no scars.

Hale's motion for a recess was voted down—39 to 22—and the business continued.

Crawford Holds the Floor.

Early this morning, with many senators sleeping in their chairs and lounges about the senate chamber, Senator Crawford still held the floor, after having been talking almost continuously for six hours.

Supporters of Senator Lorimer advanced the case to a point where a roll call may be started at any time when the anti-Lorimer forces may be caught napping. Senator Bailey took advantage of a lull to move that when a vote is taken on the Lorimer case it be taken by the calling of the ayes and noes. It was declared carried.

Federal Auto Bill Favorably Reported.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The federal automobile license bill, introduced by Representative Wanger of Pennsylvania, was favorably reported by the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. Drivers are also to be licensed.

RAILROAD EQUIPMENT ORDER IS AMENDED

Companies Given Five Years Additional to Make Changes.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Railroad equipment now actually in service will not have to be rebuilt to conform to the safety appliance regulations promulgated last autumn by the interstate commerce commission for substantially five years. The commission will issue in the near future an order extending the time within which the railroads will have to make their equipment—including freight and passenger cars and locomotives—conform to the regulations.

Committees representing the special agents of the commission, the railways and the organizations of railroad employees submitted to the commission an agreement as to the suspension to be granted. The agreement provides that the carriers shall have an extension of five years from July 1, 1911, to make their equipment conform to the regulations respecting brakes, end and side, ladder clearances and other appliances on freight cars, and an extension of three years from the same date to make the required changes on passenger cars, and an extension of two years to change locomotives, except switch engines, which must be made to conform to the regulations within one year.

LORDS' VETO BILL

Chamberlain Offers Amendment Embodying Views of Unionists.

London, Feb. 28.—The second reading stage of the lords' veto bill opened in the house of commons. The discussion will occupy at least four days and a vote will not be taken before Friday.

Premier Asquith having formally moved the second reading of the measure, which is designed to restrict the authority of the upper chamber over legislation originating in the house of commons, J. Austen Chamberlain moved a Unionist amendment that the house would welcome the introduction of a bill to reform the composition of the house of lords, while maintaining its independence as a second chamber, but declined to proceed with a measure which placed all effective legislative authority in the hands of a single chamber and offered no safeguard against grave changes made without the consent of the people.

Mr. Chamberlain declared that if the veto bill was the government's last word it could not pass. He appealed for a compromise in the spirit of last year's conference.

WOULD USE DUCKING STOOL

Police Chief of Lowell Thinks It Most Efficacious Cure for Women Scolds.

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 28.—Chief of Police Welch wants to re-establish a ducking stool for scolding women.

"In the olden times," said he, "the scold was punished with the ducking stool. Today a jail sentence is the penalty for railing and brawling.

"The offender may be the mother of a family from whom we do not wish to separate her, but she may have a tongue that no power can check and be the chronic disturber of an otherwise peaceful neighborhood. For such a woman the ducking stool would be the most humane and the most efficacious punishment."

Explosion Still a Mystery.

St. Louis, Feb. 28.—Police investigation has failed to disclose the cause of the explosion in the Italian section, which partly wrecked two buildings. The force of the blast was outward, which leads to the belief that a pocket of gas in the walls or flooring became ignited. No one was seriously hurt.

RAILROAD MEN IN CONFERENCE

General Counsel for Eastern Roads Have Floor Exclusively.

SHIFT IN SENTIMENT OF HEADS

Wall Street Interprets Abandonment of General Conference Idea to Change in Attitude Toward Decision of Interstate Commerce Commission

New York, Feb. 28.—Only the legal phases of what the eastern trunk line railroads propose to do in the face of the decision of the interstate commerce commission, denying increased freight rates, were considered at a general conference here. It was a conference exclusively of general counsel, in which executive heads and bankers, so far as can be learned, took no part.

Fifteen attorneys discussed the situation for several hours in the offices of Vice President A. H. Harris of the New York Central, head of its legal department. After the conference Mr Harris said in part:

"A conference of counsel of some of the eastern lines was held in the New York Central offices at the Grand Central terminal to consider the freight rate decision handed down by the interstate commerce commission. It was said no conclusion was reached as to the course the companies would decide to follow and might not be for some days."

The abandonment of the original plan to have a meeting of the executive heads was due, it is said, to the railroad officials' desire that their counsel shall first determine the status of their case from a legal standpoint. It is believed that while the discussion hinged on the question of the constitutionality of the Mann-Elkins bill, the fifteen attorneys present came to no decision whether the constitutionality of the bill would be attacked.

It is understood the conference will continue informally for several days without public announcement until it is definitely decided what action is to be taken. Wall street interprets the change in plans—that is the abandonment of the general conference idea, which was to have been in the nature of an indignation meeting—to a shift in sentiment. Railroad heads were, almost without exception, pessimistic when the decision was first made known, but subsequently several approved the ruling and many powerful financial interests also took this view.

INVENTS NEW DEVICE FOR STARTING AUTOS

Dr. W. R. Byars, a former well known osteopathic physician of Maryville, who went to San Diego, California, several years ago for the practice of his profession, where he has met with eminent success has become an inventor, the result of his enthusiasm in his one diversion, automobiling.

The following article appeared in the San Diego Daily Union of February 12, in regard to his invention, which is a simple device for starting the engine of a motor driven vehicle while the driver remains in his seat. The article is accompanied by a picture of Dr. Byars and the machinist, G. W. Sage, seated in the doctor's automobile, his hand on the lever of the new cranking device.

The description of its working will doubtless be of interest to Maryville autoists, and is as follows:

An ingenious device for starting the engine of a motor driven vehicle by the driver without leaving his seat has been perfected by G. W. Sage, a machinist of this city, and Dr. W. R. Byars.

The idea originated some years ago with Dr. Byars, following a fracture of the wrist which he sustained while attempting to crank his automobile. Lack of mechanical training prevented him from making any effort to develop his idea, but he revealed his plans to Mr. Sage some time ago.

After several weeks of studying and experimenting Mr. Sage completed a working model and attached it to Dr. Byars' automobile. From the first it worked to the entire satisfaction of the inventors.

The lever with which the apparatus is controlled is placed just forward of the hand brake, on the right side of the car, and is clamped beneath the floor to the frame of the machine. A chain runs forward from the clamp to the front of the automobile, and passing around an idler pulley connects with the cranking apparatus proper, located on the outside of the hood of the car.

Though simple of design, the cranking device is remarkably ingenious in its construction. A clutch band, hinged in the middle, fits closely around a grooved driver pulley, one side of which is attached to the chain extending from the driver's seat. A steel spring at the top of the pulley maintains the equilibrium. Inside the hood of the automobile the cranking shaft is fitted with a sliding sleeve provided with teeth. A similar sleeve is pinned to the engine shaft.

By reversing the lever at the drivers' seat the chain running forward to the cranking apparatus is drawn backward, causing the clutch band to grip and turn the grooved pulley. The teeth of the sliding sleeve inside the hood are thrown automatically into conjunction with the teeth of the sleeve fastened to the engine shaft, the fly wheel of the engine is thrown over and the engine is in operation.

The hand lever at the seat then drops back automatically to its former position, slacking the tension on the chain and permitting the clutch band to release its hold on the pulley. The steel spring on the top of the pulley whirls it back to its original position, at the same time breaking the connection between the cranking shaft and the engine shaft sleeve.

Damage to the mechanism of the car resulting from the unavoidable occasional "back firing" is eliminated by the arrangement permitting the clutch band to release its hold on the pulley the moment there is a slackening in the leverage exerted upon it from the driver's seat. This, in the minds of the inventors of the device, is one of its chief points of merit.

The entire device, while designed primarily for use on automobiles, may be adapted to any kind of a vehicle whose motive power is the gasoline engine. There is no question in the minds of the inventors that it may be used with equal facility upon the automobile, the aeroplane and the hydroplane, and they believe that they will be enabled to demonstrate this fact soon.

A patent for the device has been applied for and its manufacture will be begun very soon in San Diego. The inventors declare they can put the finished product on the market at an extremely low figure. Its total weight will not, it is said, exceed seven pounds and by manufacturing it of a certain kind of steel it is believed this can be reduced considerably. The model made by Mr. Sage has been used on Dr. Byar's machine for several weeks and has proved a success. A brass box placed over the mechanism hides it from view and adds to, rather than detracts, from the general appearance of the car.

Free Sample For Baby's Ills

Something can and must be done for the puny, crying baby, for the child that refuses to eat and is restless in its sleep. And since the basis of all health is the proper working of the digestive organs, look first to the condition of the stomach and bowels.

A child should have two full and free movements of the bowels a day. This emptying of the bowels is very important, as with it comes a clear head, a lightness of step, good appetite and sound sleep. But it is equally important to know what to give the child in the emergency of constipation and indigestion. Cathartics are too strong and salts and other purgatives are not only too strong, but the child refuses them because of their bad taste. Have you ever tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin? It is a liquid tonic that families have been using for a quarter of a century. It is mild, pleasant-tasting and promptly effective. It is good for you as well as the child, but there is nothing better to be found for children. They like its taste—you will not have to force them to take it.

First of all, if you have not yet used it, Dr. Caldwell would like to send you a sample bottle free of charge. In this way you can try it before buying. Later, when convinced of its merits, you can get it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as thousands of other families are doing. The family of Mr. D. W. Spangler of Strattonville, Pa., as well as that of Mr. A. F. Johnson of Walnut Grove, Tenn., started with it in that way and now write that it is their one family necessity next to food itself. If you are unfortunate enough to have a sickly child, one given to constipation and indigestion, you should send for a free sample of this remedy.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.509 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

TRUST TOLD TO STAY AWAY.

Foreign Combines of All Kinds Will Not Be Permitted to Acquire Vested Rights on the Continent—Minister Best's Statement.

Melbourne, Australia, Feb. 28.—The commonwealth of Australia served notice on the business world that it would not harbor foreign "trusts." The following memorandum on the subject was given to the press by Sir R. W. Best, minister of trade and customs:

"For several months it has been an open secret that representatives of the American Meat trust have been visiting Australia, ostensibly with the object of extending its operations here. The government is determined to take immediate and drastic action to discourage and, if necessary, to prohibit its operations in Australia. It is not proposed to wait until the combine has secured vested interests in this country. The minister of trade and customs is consulting with the attorney general with the view to bringing the full force of the present law into operation, and if necessary obtaining further legislation. The action of the government will extend to trust operations in Australia whether conducted directly or indirectly and will not permit the repetition in Australia of the scandals and merciless methods characterizing monopolies in other parts of the world."

BRIAND MINISTRY RESIGNS

Members of French Cabinet Hand Resignations to President.

Paris, Feb. 28.—Premier Aristide Briand, who succeeded Clemenceau as head of the French cabinet on July 23, 1909, tendered the resignation of his ministry to President Fallieres. On Nov. 2 last Briand formally retired, but a few hours later he was restored to power and formed a new cabinet, from which all elements not thoroughly in sympathy with his attitude toward labor had been eliminated.

The present situation is wholly different and the premier had declared himself weary of the bickering of parliament and the intrigues of the groups nominally supporting him and expressed the wish that he might be relieved of the responsibility of government.

President Fallieres accepted the resignation of the cabinet.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

This remedy is sold under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle and is recommended and sold by

"'Tis hard to say good-by,"
The poets often write,
But it seems to us when young men call
On maids and linger in the hall,
It is harder to say "Good-night."
—Louisville Herald.

S. Ball and daughter, Miss Verda Ball of Hopkins, were in Maryville Tuesday. Miss Ball enrolled as a student in the Normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Slagle and Mr. and Mrs. James Rhoades of near Ravenwood were shopping in the city Monday.

There's music in the sighing of a reed;
There's music in the gushing of a rill;
There's music in all things if men had ears—
Their earth is but an echo of the spheres.
—Byron.

Who Pays for Advertising?

"Look at that now!" exclaimed the Kicker, pointing to a full page newspaper advertisement of a standard commodity. "Look at that and think of the enormous waste going on every day in advertising. All of it has to be paid for by the consumer and the cost of the goods correspondingly increased. Why, only yesterday I was told about a man in Chicago who made $100,000 a year in profits just placing advertisements. Do you wonder we are poor, eh?" And he glared at me as if I were to blame for it all.

"I deny the waste, in the sense you mean," I said; "and I deny that the cost of goods is increased by the expense of advertising. Just think a moment. You are the manufacturer of a standard commodity like this one advertised. Any one may make it. How much would it cost a man to make just one of these articles for his own use?"

"Perhaps $20, counting time and materials," he replied.

"But, making them by the million, as you do," I said, "you can sell them at $1 apiece and get a good profit, provided a million men are informed that you can supply them with this particular thing. Now, the advertising agent attempts to so inform them, and in so far as he succeeds in doing this he brings together the maker and those who want the goods. He is an essential factor in the co-operation and division of labor by which the goods are produced, and because of his aid each purchaser has saved the equivalent of $19. Further than this, many men are enabled to enjoy the commodity who would otherwise have to go without it by reason of their inability to obtain the materials, or because of their lack of time or skill to make it. The man who advertises your goods is a producer just as much as you are or the bookkeeper or mechanic in your factory. Hence he is as much entitled to wages as you or they are. And just as the wages of your employes do not come out of your pocket nor out of the pockets of your customers, neither do his. We, your customers, are not poorer by your work, the work of your employes and the advertising agent, but richer to the degree you have helped us to gratify our desires with the least effort. The real reason why we are poor—why anyone is poor—is another question."—C. F. Shandrew in The Public.

Looking.

"I think I had better get a job before we marry."

"Don't be so unromantic, Freddy. I won't need any clothing for a long, long time."

"But you may want to eat almost immediately, my dear."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Miss Pauline Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Martin of St. Joseph, visited in Maryville from Friday night until Monday evening with her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Martin.
